

1 counties. There are two States that provide by law for 2 the lower house, and one provides by law for the upper 3 chamber.

4 I think that it is clear from those brief reci-
5 tations that there absolutely is no uniformity in the 49
6 States, and I exclude here, of course, Nebraska, which 7 does have a unicameral legislature, with respect to how 8 do you deal with this problem.

9 Turning next to the question of sizes of State
10 legislatures, and the effect that has taken place since 1962
11 and 1964, it is fundamental to an understanding of this 12 provision of these set of figures that 45 at least, 45 of 13 the 50 States have reapportioned their legislature since 14 those decisions. Another three States are in the process
15 of doing so.

16 I don't think it can be safely challenged that 17 ever in the history of the country has so much been 18 done in so little time with respect to apportioning State
19 legislatures. There has been a tremendous change.

20 During this period, of all these tremendous 21 changes, sizes, numbers, and where they shall be located,
